- Male/female relationships in traditional African communities are determined by age, customs and taboos.
  - Young boys and girls relate freely with each other as their differences are not pronounced.
  - When the boys and girls grow up, their differences become pronounced and are therefore separated.
  - During childhood, girls identify with and imitate their mothers while boys their fathers.
  - During important occasions like festivals and dances, boys and girls are accompanied by other adults to ensure they stay apart and do not misbehave.
  - At puberty, boys and girls are given vigorous education, mainly during initiation, on how to relate with the opposite sex, marriage and sexual matters.
  - After initiation, young men and women are given opportunities to interact within their age groups, mainly during functions, but with rules to govern their relationships.
  - As young adults, they engage in serious courtship as they look for marriage partners, they may even participate in erotic games like chakacha dance, but not engage in sex.
  - In marriage, men and women relate as husband and wife, with conjugal rights meant for procreation and not for pleasure.

MARKING SCHEME

1. (a) Explain seven effects of the translation of the Bible into African languages. (7mks)
- It led to establishment of schools to educate people so as to be able to read the bible for themselves.
  - It led to establishment of independent churches as the Africans could read and interpret the bible for themselves.
  - As Africans read and understood the Bible on their own, many began to exercise leadership in the churches.
  - It led to mass evangelization as many could now understand the written word of God.
  - It led to establishment of local printing press as high demand for more Bibles arose.
  - Missionaries appreciated African culture. Their attitude towards African culture changed.
  - Africans started to express aspects of their culture such as use of musical instruments in Christian worship. (7x1=7mks)
- (b) Give six lessons Christians learn about work from the Genesis stories of creation. (6mks)
- Work was ordained by God.
  - By working, human beings attain self – fulfillment.
  - Work is to be done for six days and rest on the seventh day.
  - People should work so as to provide for themselves and their families.
  - People should obey God’s command by being co-workers of God.
  - Work is blessed by God.
- (c) Give seven reasons why some youth do not embrace the teachings of the Bible (7mks)
- Peer pressure
  - Permissiveness in society
  - Influence from electronic and print media
  - They lack faith in God
  - The Bible rebukes their behaviour
  - They lack role models
  - Drug abuse
  - Ignorance
  - They may argue it is not scientifically proved.
2. (a) Relate the incident where Abraham was told by God to sacrifice his son at Mt. Moriah. (10mks)
- Abraham was instructed by God to take his son Isaac and go to Moriah where he was to sacrifice him as a burnt offering.
  - The following day, Abraham set off with his donkey, two of his donkey, two of his servants and his son, Isaac. He had cut enough wood for the burnt offering.
  - On the third day, Abraham told his servants to wait for him at the foot of the mountain while he went up with his son to sacrifice to God.
  - Abraham took the wood, knife and his son. As the two of them went on together, Isaac enquired from his father where the lamb for the burnt offering was.
  - Abraham replied that God Himself would provide the lamb for the burnt offering.
  - When they reached the place God had told him about, Abraham built an altar and arranged the wood on it. He bound his son and laid him on top of the wood.
  - Abraham then took the knife to slay his son.
  - At that point, the angel of the Lord called out from heaven and commanded him not to lay a hand on the boy. He praised him for the faith he had in God and for his obedience.
  - Abraham saw a ram was caught in the thicket nearby. He took it and sacrificed it as burnt offerings instead of his son.
  - Abraham called the place, “The Lord will provide”.
  - The angel of the Lord called to Abraham from heaven and reassured him of his faith in God. God promised Abraham blessings, many descendants, prosperity and that nations of the earth would be blessed through his offsprings.
  - After this, Abraham and his son returned to his servants and set of together to Beersheba. (10x1 = 10 marks)
- (b) Give reasons why Abraham failed to sacrifice his son at Mt. Moriah? (5mks)
- Abraham was commanded by angel of the Lord not to kill Isaac.
  - The experience was a test from God. God just wanted to test Abraham’s faith in Him.
  - God provided a ram that was to be sacrificed instead of Isaac.
  - Abraham realized that God does not value human sacrifice.
  - God wanted Abraham to realise that He was different from the gods he used to worship before.
  - The incidence showed Abraham that God keeps His promises.
  - God wanted to use Isaac for His salvation history. (5x1 = 5 marks)
- (c) Identify how Christians express their faith in God. (5mks)
